Junghen church service set for Saturday

The historic Mount Union Church will host the annual Junghen church service at 6 p.m. Saturday. This service is one of the many events to be held over the three day reunion.

Younkin cousin, the Rev. Jay Christner, pastor of the Rockwood Church of the Brethren, will be the guest minister. Ethel Mae Karfelt is the guest pianist.

Special music will be presented by the Mount Union Sacred Harp Singers as they remember the many family members that have died since the last reunion.

This year's theme is "A Junghen Family Christmas Eve." The church even has a Christmas tree for this service. The service will end with a candlelight ceremony.

Junghen was the early spelling for what we know today as Youkin, Yonkin, Youngkid, Younkinds, Younkins, Youngkens, Young-kin and Younkin.

The next service Aug. 2 at Mount Union Church is canceled.

A WORD FROM BARBARA PARK

Hello sisters & cousins:

Well, Bob and I went to the 18th Younkin Family Reunion last weekend in Kingwood, PA. It was really nice. We stayed at the Holiday Inn in Somerset, and we ate dinner at the Eat 'n Park, which allowed me to have warmed blackberry pie with ice cream!

Younkins had a hospitality room at the Holiday Inn, where as you arrived on Friday, you could mingle with other Younkings, read historical information and catch up on everyone's life since last year. Refreshments in the way of sodas and snacks were there for all.

Saturday plans included a trip to the Flight 93 crash site before the 11 am meeting at the IOOF Grove at Kingwood. Many went the tour, while others slept in and ordered room service (like me.)

At the Grove at 11, folks arrived and began mingling and placing their auction items on the tables for later. There were lots of hugs as we are a loving bunch of people! Close to noon, we had the "family portrait" and about 60 of us scrunched in for pictures. It was especially poignant, as we have the tree planted in Donna's memory in the middle of the photo.

The lunch was chicken, pasta, ham, green beans, scalloped potatoes, cole slaw and baked beans. The Younkin family sheet cake was for dessert. The chicken was the best I've had in a long time!

After lunch we had a speaker from the Somerset Historical Society who gave us tips on preserving documents and textiles. He mentioned the society is having Harmon Husband's will restored and that Scotch tape had really damaged it. Of course I had to tell him later that I was a Harmon Husband descendant! The many handouts given by the speaker will help us all preserve those items we wish to pass on down through our families.

A short business meeting saw the end of the presidency of the "I married a Younkin" (IMAY) Larry Logan. We were all sad about that, but we will not let him get away from us...he is too much fun!

By too much fun, one way is as our auctioneer!!!! He kept us in stitches, describing items and their attributes and possible uses. His entertainment and cajoling caused us to bid on things we don't even need and the total raised was around $230! I spent $17 on two jars of black raspberry jam and a pan of fudge! I must be nuts! Never underestimate the power of homemade food items!!!

Grove time ended about 3:30 and we were not to have hot dogs at the Mt. Union Church until 5, so Bob and I took our usual tour down to Confluence, passing Kay Lynn Younkin's dairy farm and Everett and Chris Sechler's home and sugar shack on the way down. We sat at a parking lot in front of the tracks at Confluence for a while, getting a breather from the Younkins and waiting for trains to watch. Alas, no trains came, so we went to "Sisters Café" and had sandwiches which entitled us to use the flush toilet. (There is only a porta potty at the Grove, and although it is very big and clean, there is nothing like a flush toilet!)

We left Confluence and headed back up the road to go to Mt. Union Church. It is a good thing I knew where to turn, because the Leaphart Road sign was missing! As I made the turn, my GPS road label confirmed Leaphart Road, so that was a relief. Also, it was still daylight, so I was not afraid of being lost. We got to the church without incident. Hot dogs were still being served, but we had eaten in Confluence, so we went into the church to wait for the service. What a shock...it was decorated for Christmas! Someone decided to have Christmas on July 25. Well, seeing greenery and red bows struck fear in my heart! It brought back that feeling of 2 weeks before Christmas and still presents to buy and wrap and cards to get out and cookies to bake and not enough time...oh my, I had to calm myself down and say, "It's really only July!" Actually, the service was very nice, however strange it was to sing Christmas carols in July. The nicest part was the reading of the names of the Younkins who had died in the past year. A bell tolled and a candle was lit as each name and obit was read. Then there was the problem of the pianist not showing up. Thankfully the minister and another member of the congregation pinch-hit until she arrived and I felt lucky that I did not have to volunteer as I am very rusty and would have really botched up the hymns. (I bet I was not the only other piano player there who was relieved as well.) It was very nice at the end of the service to have candle-lighting while singing "Silent Night." Younkins are pretty good singers!

It was still daylight as we turned down Turkey Foot Trail and headed to Leaphart Road. Although the hospitality room was manned, Bob and I turned in early. Sunday brought the annual Younkin good-bye breakfast, hugs and good wishes for the coming year. All in all, a great weekend with loving "family," thanks to all the hard work of the committee. We are lucky to have this organization and to be part of it!!

Thanks too all who contributed toward a new stone for Barbara Crider/Kreider Faidley Shultz, buried in Old Bethel Cemetery. Her old stone was barely readable, and her grave would have been lost to future generations without your generous support. (You know who you are!) Several of Barbara's children married Younkins, and she is the ancestor of many Younkin Reunion attendees.

Olive Duff Legacy - Thanks to Howard Duff, who donated Olive's research books in 2009. They are presently in the care of Linda Marker, and provide local access to both her Younkin and Faidley research. You will remember that Olive worked closely with Donna Younkin Logan to search the records of our ancestors. Olive left us 30 Apr 2002. Stop by and thank Howard for his generous foresightedness.
